Collectif Petit Travers & The Debussy String Quartet

© Michel Cavalca

Duration : 1h10

Performance for 10 jugglers and the 4 musicians of the Debussy String Quartet
Music by Henry Purcell and Marc Mellits

The Collectif Petit Travers and the Debussy String Quartet joined forces in this production, exploring the close links between the intimate and universal realms of their performers. The musicians and jugglers search the ways they shape their relationships to the world. Each artist's path is integrated into the tapestry of intimate testimonies and diverse musical and choreographic languages.

Artistic directors Nicolas Mathis and Julien Clément have undertaken this rich and reflective collaboration with the musicians of the Debussy Quartet and the music of Henry Purcell and Marc Mellits. Premiered at the Dance Biennale in Lyon in October 2023, the production will be presented in a series of performances at Paris La Villette in November 2024.

PRESS

« A demanding, intelligent, sensitive juggling and choreography showcasing sumptuous tableaux and breathtaking technical mastery. It's rare to see so many jugglers together on stage, and here they do it with mastery: a must-see ! »
Cult.news

« A major juggling piece at the Lyon Dance Biennial : the Collectif Petit Travers has succeeded admirably - in writing for multiple voices - to become one. »
